

Good guys
Send your nominations to dalea@dailytelegraph.com.au

GOOD GUYS AWARD

Rugby League's one

CANBERRA Raiders winger Justin Carney is the March winner of the One Community Good Guy award after he devoted himself to a six-week program helping the students at Rosary Primary School, in the nation's capital, develop their motor skills.

Carney arranged the program himself and has been attending the school on his rostered days off. The winger also took part in the One Community Carnival in Nyngan, Cobar and Bourke to run skills sessions and speak to children about "Eating Well, Playing Well and Staying Well".

To top it off, Carney also gave his time to the Macquarie Sports Clinic in Canberra, which involved 500 children between the ages of five and seven improving different skills. The One Community Good Guy highlights the fantastic work NRL players complete in the community. Because of Carney's efforts, he won a weekend away for two at the Old Sydney Holiday Inn at The Rocks.

BULLDOGS

BULLDOGS players last week joined forces with Camp Quality's remote-control boy "Giggle" at Westmead Children's Hospital to spread laughter to the youngsters in the oncology ward.

"Giggle" is one of Camp Quality's fun-therapy innovations and has visited most children's hospitals around the country.

The players handed out Bulldogs posters, which helped spark some friendly rivalry among the patients.

WESTS TIGERS

AFTER Wests Tigers learned that Craig Price and his son Jordan drove three hours from Orange to attend an open training session at Campbelltown Sports Stadium, the joint-venture club showed their appreciation by granting Jordan his wish of meeting Benji Marshall.

Marshall spent time speaking with Jordan and signed autographs. The youngster and his father will drive from Orange to see the Tigers in action against the Roosters at Sydney Football Stadium tonight.